

An argument inequality gives an angular region

The starting point is excluded because the argument is undefined.

